April 2012 update from Ken Millwood

Dear All,

Welcome to the latest update on my book.

I've had a packed few months busy with getting the book cover, website and 2 video shoots completed as well as the normal writing. It's still going well doing 4 days a week at KCM with Monday's at home to work on the book, although I have recently applied for a full time Manager's post at KCM (as they don't come up very often).

I am very pleased with both the book cover and website and have enjoyed working with James in Trowbridge (www.mygreenlabel.com/design) on these projects.

The website shows the final cover design, tells people a bit about me and the book, includes an extract from the introduction, a page for previous updates and links to my Facebook, Linked In and YouTube pages. I am excited about the YouTube page which has 2 video clips of me reading short extracts from the book. The aim is now to keep the website updated and for future updates to be available directly via the website.

The website can be viewed here: www.totaldependenceongod.com. Please take time to have a look and tell others about it as well!

Most recently I have been working on Chapter 9 - what happens when we depend on God and it all goes wrong. This is taking longer than planned but I keep coming across stuff that is relevant and it is taking shape as I depend on God's leading and timing. The overall word count is now about 42,000 words.

Finally, after the last update I exchanged emails with someone who encouraged me to set a target date to complete the book. This prompted me to make a To Do List which is helping me work through and tick off everything I need to do to finish the book.

The next update will be available in early June.

Kind Regards,

Ken
